SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Anne Lucas, Seattle Collaborative Law Training Group – Anne Lucas is a mediator, coach, teacher/trainer. She specializes in couple relationships – premarital, marital, divorce, remarriage and partnerships. She is the owner and clinical director of The Evergreen Clinic, an interdisciplinary group of 21 mental health professionals providing mental health services in the Kirkland area for the last 26 years. She works as a Divorce Coach in Collaborative Practice assisting couples in creating healthy divorce options and post-divorce relationship, a mediator helping resolve family disputes with creative solutions and a parent coach for post-divorce families.

Anne is a co-founder of the Seattle Collaborative Law Training Group, a frequent presenter at the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals forums and along with Nancy Cameron, developed and taught the IACP Leadership Academy in 2013. She is an adjunct faculty member of Saybrook University, the Seattle campus, since 2010 where she teaches in the master’s counseling program.

Anne currently serves on the Board of Directors for the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals as treasurer and is a past President of both King County Collaborative Law and Collaborative Professionals of Washington.

Andrew Schwarz, The Schwarz-Garrison Law Firm – Andrew Schwarz is a partner/owner of The Schwarz~Garrison Law Firm and has been practicing Collaborative Law since 2009. Prior to that, he litigated Criminal and Complex Civil cases for over twenty five years. He has served as Adjunct Professor at Seattle University School of Law and as an Instructor at the University of Washington Paralegal Certificate Program. He was formerly a Staff Attorney at the Seattle King County Public Defender Association, and a Law Clerk for Judge Marsha J. Pechman. All in all, he prefers playing the guitar.

Loretta Story, Story Law Office – Loretta Story focuses her practice in the area of Family Law with an emphasis on collaborative law and mediation. Loretta's practice includes divorce, separation, custody and support issues and domestic violence. She brings over 25 years of legal experience to her practice. Loretta believes that through the use of the collaborative process, family law matters can be resolved in a respectful manner without the threat of litigation. She welcomes the opportunity to serve parties as either a collaborative attorney or a mediator.

Loretta co-founded the Collaborative Law Section of King County Bar Association, served on the King County Collaborative Law Board for 6 years, and Collaborative Professionals of Washington for 6 years.
