In 1992, the Navy stationed me in Bremerton, Washington, where I served as a Lieutenant in the JAG Corps. After the end of my service in 1995, I opened a successful private law practice based in Seattle, focusing on estate planning and probate. In 1998, following the footsteps of my younger brother, I entered the mortgage industry. Having discovered a passion for helping customers with their home financing, I slowly shut down my law practice, devoting 100% of my work life towards mortgages. In 2006, I made a wise decision to focus 100% of my time on reverse mortgages in Seattle, Bellevue, Kirkland and the surrounding Washington areas. It gives me immense gratification to assist seniors with living a more secure life within their own homes — often the one they've owned for over 40 years, and where their grandchildren come to stay!
