AGENDA

12:00 PM Introduction

12:10 PM Presentation: ‘What Kanye West Can Teach Us About Litigation’, by Brent Turman, Bell Nunnally & Martin, LLP

Over the past twenty years, Kanye West has run the gamut when it comes to civil lawsuits. From copyright and trade infringement to breaches of contract to class action litigation, West has seen it all. In this presentation, Brent Turman analyzes Kanye’s “greatest hits” in the courtroom and shares lessons other litigators can learn from his experiences.

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Brent Turman, Bell Nunnally & Martin, LLP - Brent's commercial litigation practice covers a variety of matters including business disputes, intellectual property, real estate, arbitration and civil RICO actions. He advocates for clients ranging from startups to high net worth individuals to Fortune 50 companies. For the past five years, Brent has been recognized by his peers as a Super Lawyers "Rising Star" for business litigation.

Brent frequently gives trial skills presentations across the country, teaching other attorneys about the strategies and tools he has used in the courtroom.

Before Brent's legal career, he was an Associate Operations Producer for ESPN / ABC College Football. In addition, Brent produced commercials, industrial videos, in-arena entertainment, and music videos for clients throughout North America. Brent has continued to use this experience to assist clients in the Entertainment, Media and Sports industry by preparing and reviewing relevant contracts and navigating clients through business disputes. Outside of the office Brent produces short films and recently worked as a Remote Producer for the XFL's re-launch in 2020.
